Zambon Decorating Company has donated a large statue of a football player to Iron Mountain High School. The football player, originally a San Francisco '49er, was spotted in a storage room at Zambon Decorating by Bill Revord who suggested the possibility of a donation. After some work by the Art Club, the football player has been transformed into a Mountaineer. The refurbished statue now has a new home in the Izzo-Mariucci Commons area where he will be permanently on display.

Dear Alumni and Friends:

We are off and running with another school year well underway! It is hard to believe we have already completed our first quarter of the 08-09 year. Our students are well-established in their routines and our seniors have been meeting with college representatives, started visiting colleges and making plans for the next level in their educational careers.

Good news from the State of Michigan! The Iron Mountain Public Schools have received the letter grade of "A" for each of our elementary, middle school and high school buildings. This is a tribute to our hard working staff, dedicated students and parents who continue to stay involved in their children's education. You can be assured our students continue to receive a first class education in this district. The letter grades are determined through a specific criteria with the results of the MEAP tests being the major factor in the assessment.

We continue to receive donations for our "Take A Seat" fundraiser for our auditorium seats. We are pleased to announce that we have sold approximately 40% of the seats thus far. We are hoping to move our sales into the 80-90% range in order to start the project during the summer of 2009. If you are starting to think of holiday gift-giving, this would be an outstanding way to honor a loved one! We greatly appreciate your support on this project.

Sincerely,

Denny Chartier

My Mother, Idea Burkart, Lover of Community

Submitted By Jeanne Williams

June 5, 2008 – My mother, Idea Burkart, lifelong resident of Iron Mountain, passed away at the age of 99 years “young.”

Where did Idea’s unusual name come from? In the early 1900s Idea’s Italian father was actively involved in workers’ rights reforms in Europe. It was a revolutionary “idea” that workers did indeed have rights. Thus, the daughter of Valerio Calvino was named Idea. The spirit that would become a proud American was born.

Many words are descriptive of my mother. She was loving, kind, family-centered, intelligent, creative, imaginative, social, and active; she possessed great resolve and strength, and she was pretty! Her beauty of character and gentle ways touched many hearts. Always ready to share her smile and sense of humor, she was one for whom laughter came easily. She was a positive thinker, concerned about people around her and her community.

Above all, Idea loved her community, Iron Mountain, Michigan, and education. She was valedictorian of her IMHS graduating class of 1926, earning the distinction of district contest winner and state champion in shorthand and typewriting. Throughout her life, her Underwood typewriter, purchased used at Standard Printing for $15, was the most used item in our household. It was her sturdy servant for many years as Idea typed away, accomplishing her volunteer work for the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, first as Iron Mountain PTA Council president and then as District Director, Regional Vice President and chairman of state Founders Day, Preschool and High School Service, and Program committees. Her presentation of leadership training workshops in PTA spanned 25 years of service.

Idea’s love of community extended to our Dickinson County Library and its services. She assisted in reorganizing the Friends of the Library, served as an officer and co-chaired successful millage elections. Being an avid reader all her life, she was current with national and world events and ready to converse and share her opinions. She possessed an unending thirst for life and knowledge.

As a member of St. Mary & St. Joseph Church and its Auxiliary of the Knights of Columbus, Idea exemplified an honest work ethic, including prayer and faith in God modeled in real life, leaving investments in Christian training and a priceless Christian legacy to her family. As wife of Bill Burkart for 64 years, she cared for family members with love and concern.

Possessing the gift of making others feel special, people instantly felt her warmth and friendship upon meeting her. She was truly more concerned about others than herself, bringing sunshine into their lives.

An excellent communicator, a conversationalist, a storyteller, an avid correspondent, a sympathetic listener, a cheerful, supportive individual, a non-complainer, a calming influence in times of life crises, a community advocate, this was a very special lady, my mother, Idea Burkart.

Hello Auditorium Fundraisers:

Cornelius Peck was very proud of being a graduate of IMHS, and always interested in the newsletter you sent him. After he died last month, I found this newsletter featuring the auditorium project. I know Cornelius would be pleased to have his name on a plaque at his beloved Alma mater.

Sincerely,

Gloria Peck (Wife of 58 Years!)

Dear IMHS Alumni and Friends Editor:

I am enclosing the form on having three generations of IMHS graduates. Grandma Ann Miller attended IMHS and graduated. However, my mom (Shirley), thought that back then high school only went until 10th grade so we hope we have the year correct. I so hope we may have a fourth generation graduating from IMHS. We just need to work on me moving back to Iron Mountain with my 6 year old daughter or having the community start praying for my newly married brother to start having children soon ☺.

I so enjoy your newsletter. It brings back so many wonderful memories. I can not believe Mr. Percolosi retired. I had him as a health teacher and he was fabulous. I think my sister, Meg, also had him as an instructor from driver education. Perhaps he can give her a refreshers course. However, she flies planes now so I don't get on her as much about her driving.

What more can be said about Dr. Jacobs than those positive comments already received and probably much more articulate than myself. It is not easy to find a great family doctor like him! You sure don't find them down here below the bridge! I still remember going to him when I hurt my foot a week before the U.P. Cross Country Finals and how he was bound and determined to make me better in a week to run. I was able to compete in the finals and at the finish line was given information on running for Lake Superior State University, which I did attend on a Cross Country and Track scholarship. I also remember him making a house call, on my birthday, in which my brother John decided to fall on the ice, on the way home from school, and had a concussion. Again Dr. Jacobs helped make him better so my party could continue. It sure beat having my party in the Emergency Room. If you see Dr. Jacobs tell him thanks again and Go Blue!

Keep up the great work and enclosed is a donation to help keep the process rolling and filled with ink. Take care.

Yours truly,

Lynn Mande-Rollins, Class of 1989

IMHS Alumni and Friends:

I have read each edition most carefully—so far haven't found the year 1936—am I the last? I celebrated 90 on 4/12, 4 sons, 13 grandchildren and 16 greats. Presently living in beautiful Grand Haven, MI—thinking about a move to Sun City AZ—oldest son and his 2 sons and families there. Winter here 2007-08, I didn't enjoy. Keep busy volunteering at Library and Sr. Center, teaching beginning Bridge, attempt some golf. Have Cousins in IM. Hope this brings more '36 classmates out.

Best- Doris Kelsey

Really enjoy reading your newsletter. I enjoyed my brief time at IMHS and still keep in touch with a few old class mates. Keep up the good work.

Thank you very much for your newsletters. I'm happy to see that so many alums are as convinced as I am of the superior quality of the teaching at Iron Mountain High, and delighted that the auditorium will get a face-lift.

I will remember the desks in the auditorium—we were all arranged alphabetically. Ray Juth, who was killed at Pearl Harbor just a couple of years later, sat in front of me. It was both "home-room" and "study hall".

It was good to see a picture of T. Ray Uhlinger—a fine musician and a great teacher. He was responsible for my getting a scholarship to the summer band camp at Ann Arbor—a summer that substantially set me on the musical path I've pursued.

I'd like to add another instance to Ted Corombus's article on events held in the auditorium. It concerns his sister, Demetria (or Jenny as we called her then—I don't know why) who was an outstanding debate and oratory student. There had been a not-very-complimentary article in the Iron Mountain News editorials about what poor education students had nowadays, so somehow the editor got invited to come and debate it in a public forum. I can still remember how Demetria convinced him otherwise in no uncertain terms!

Keep up your great work!

Sincerely,

Sr. Margaret James Laughlin

I enjoy the newsletter very much. I remember a few times that Miss. Hofer kept us after class for talking. At that time the auditorium was the seniors homeroom and kept us until 5:00 p.m. or so.

Dear Alumni Newsletter Staff,

I totally enjoy the newsletter and wanted to thank you for doing the piece on me – much to my surprise. My only objection is that the best half of the picture was omitted – apparently from the IMHS TV channel piece as well. Ask them for it and see if you don't agree; it puts the whole thing into perspective.

One thing that I was proud to show my wife and daughter (age 13) last summer during my 40th year class reunion was that my name is still on the top of the list in the school gymnasium of state and UP athletic champions from IMHS (as a member of Kriegel's Krushers). I've now spent more years away from IM than I did growing up in town, but I'm still always proud to tell stories of growing up on the east side and running or biking down the hill and across the tracks to get back to classes after lunch. Many a time our trek was interrupted by stopped railroad trains on the tracks and many a student hopped over the couplings to avoid being late. Some the highlights of growing up in IM were the concert series held in the school auditorium – the Tucson Arizona Boys' Choir comes immediately to mind. I now live in a city with four high schools, each one of which has some 4,000 students. The school system is very proud of having received the Eli Broad prize for urban education systems, all of which goes for college scholarships. Amazingly enough, the IMHS, now with less than 400 students, annually gives as much in scholarships to its graduates than all of the scholarship money from the Broad prize, which seems to be the only source of scholarship money in these giant schools. I only credit this to the high value that the Iron Mountain community and its graduates perceive as the value of the local community of higher education.

Dear Iron Mountain Friends:

Its 1946—I was a 16 year old orphan in Los Angeles, Ca., when my case worker found that I had an aunt on the north side, in Iron Mountain. Her name was Julia Lampretch. They contacted her, and my aunt said she would take me for my last year of High School.

I arrived there, by train, on Thanksgiving Day. It was snowing. Wow, this was the first time I had ever seen snow. How fantastic!! The next day I was enrolled in Iron Mountain High School.

This was the most rewarding year of my life. It put my whole life into perspective. I was accepted by everyone. The other kids called me “Southern Cal”. They claim I had a southern accent. I thought that they had the accent. The teachers found out that I could sing. They put me in Glee Club, and had me try out for a role in the school musical, “Annie Get Your Gun”. I was made a snow princess for the annual ski jump doings on the mountain. I didn’t have the proper clothing, so the other princesses all loaned me various bits and pieces, like boots, pants, jacket, etc., and I played my part. I got a part time job at WMIQ Radio Station reading children’s stories on Saturday mornings, and casting plays for Saturday night’s “WMIQ Playhouse” I had a full and fun year.

I graduated in 1947, and still have my Yearbook that I take out once in a while and read the encouraging noted from classmates and teachers.

I returned to Los Angeles after graduation, and worked until I got married in 1949 to a soldier. After his discharge he attended the Univ. of Minnesota and became a Doctor. He took me to Iron Mountain’s 20th Class Reunion in 1967. We had four children, seven grandchildren, and six great grandchildren, so far.

I now live in Las Vegas, next door to my son, Dirk. I’m 78 years old, still healthy, and getting along fine.

Thanks for letting me see the other side of life. Everyone in Iron Mountain just made me feel like an ordinary person, who could do everything and anything like everybody else.

Sincerely,

Marie Ravenholt-Class of 1947
